A Railroad to Europe.

NEW YORK, May 28.—How long will it be before people can go to Europe easily and quickly by way of Alaska and Siberia?

That is a question which interests a good many people who are subject to seasickness, yet who feel impelled to join in the summer rush. As for myself, though not specially apt to feel qualms upon the water I am considerably interested, after several times enduring the unutterable tedium of an ocean voyage, in the time when I can railroad it to Alaska, cross the Behring Strait on a bridge and continue through Siberia to St. Petersburg and in the time when I can railroad it to Alaska, cross the Behring Strait on a bridge and continue through Siberia to St. Petersburg and Berlin.

Railroad men say that it will not be long. American capitalists have already fully made up their minds to connect Alaska with our own railroad system by a trans-Canadian line-a precedent established by the American connections of the Grand Trunk line. The Behring Strait is easily bridged, or is narrow anough to be but a slight matter in any case. On the other side the Russian Government is pushing its trans-Siberian line with considerable energy, mainly, of course, for military purposes. So it should not be so very long before traveled Yankees are enabled to get into Europe by the back door. The old way will always be the cheapest and quickest, however.

Even now there are considerable advantages in taking the western route. In the first pince one sees a little of America, in the second the Pactic is always calm in summer and, besides, Japan, China and British India are very interesting portions of the earth to visit.

DR. BRIGGS' APPOINTMENT.

of the Veto.

DETROIT, May 28.—At the aftermoon session of the Presbyterian General Assembly yesterday Dr. Patton read the report on theological seminaries bearing on Dr. Briggs' case. Sixty-three presbyteries overtured the assembly on Dr. Briggs' utterances. They left action in the matter to the assembly. The question was one not of doctrinal soundness, but of the assembly's approval of his election to the chair of Biblical theology. Dr. Patton argued that the assembly had power to forbid the transfer, and urged immediate action. Accordingly his committee recommended that the Assembly disapprove of Dr. Briggs' appointment to the Edward Robinson Chair of Biblical theology of Union Theological Seminary, and that a Committee of Conference with the trustees of that institution be appointed to report at the next assembly. Dr. Patton quoted the following: Summary acts and resolutions of the General Assembly and of the boards of Union Theological

The arguments against him are two: Ist, he is misunderstood: 2d, that he is not sound in doctrine.—It is said in quarrels both sides are wrong: why not me misunderstanding? I have watched the controvers misunderstanding? I have watched the controvers than most. The simest omnipotence of the religious press goes into all our homes. Their editors magnify their influence. It is held to be nearly in fallible. Has it not biased the commissioners?

I desire to say nothing against these editors. They have used me well, but are they qualified for this? Even the religious editor cannot be a specialist in all departments, and is liable to err. It may be that they have misunderstood Dr. Briggs. But is it not because they habitually judge from the standpoint of their readers rather than that of accurate science? The week after the inaugural a prominent religious paper gave a syllabus of it. Could this give a fair idea of it? Such condensed views are always liable to give a warped view. They give praises here and there, perhaps in headlines which catch the eye and form a popular impression which it is hard to correct afterwards. In some prebyteries action was proposed, and I think based on no more full evidence than this. He had published four books of acknowledged weight-why try him by a syllabus? The second charge that he is unaound may be based upon misunderstanding. Some say he indorses the spiritual condition of Martiness. In a foot-not in flodge 's Theology's similar inscher—a noted rationalis—and expectation of meeting him in heaven.

But fault is found with his idea that a knowledge of God could and has been reached by his reason. Schleiermscher did, Hodge thinks.

If Dr. Briggs can nistorically justify his position he has a right to hold it. I do not know what he could do in that line. Then is it not true that the Bible was at some times put at the threshold of houses to keep out the spooks.

Dr. Ormiston: "I knew it to be done fifty years ago in the banks of

He quoted John Owens, a Westminster divine, to prove that at that time they did not believe in the inerrancy of the transmission of Scripture in a very different way from Dr. Briggs' notion. He instanced published views of Prof. Warfield of Princeton, as to the last verses of Mark and some other passages which at one time would have been considered an attack on the Bible. He quoted the passages of the confession that point to a limited atonement and that about elect infants and said:

The relations of the Union Theological Seminary and the assembly are so delicate and so complicated that it is too scon for us to decide such an important matter. The general impression among the best informed people here is that the Chilian insurgent war ship Esmeralda logge, since transferred the much desired ministions of war from the Etata, and has by her subsequent actions pretty well pulled the wool over the eyes of the Captain of the Charlestan. This belief is shared by no less authority than Isidora Errausriz. The correspondent had a talk with him on the subject yesterday.

"I have little reason to doubt," said he, "that the Etata transferred her arms to the Esmeralda."

It is said that the plan that has been adopted is to have the Esmeralda, if she really has the arms and ammunition aboard, to deliver them. The correspondent also had an important interview with the Minister of Foreign Affairs. He says that Bolivia had signed a treaty with the Congressional party, to take the place of the old truce that has been in existence between Bolivia and Chili, This new 4 reaty cedes in perpetuity to Chili, the territory occupied ten years ago by Chili as an offset to the debt which was settled on Bolivia as a result of the war. This recognition of the Congressional party practically antagonises Balmaceda. The correspondent adds that the Paris telegram regarding the bombardment of Iquique by the Chilian Government warship Imperial and the torpedo cruisers is utterly false, hotwithstanding the assertions of the Government people. He says: "I say this so positively, because I was present in Iquique at the time and would most certainly have known of it had it occurred."

THE-REWS AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 28.—The brief cablegram received at the Navy Department last evening from Capt. Remey simply announced the arrival of the Charleston at Callao with no news of the Etata. It is expected at the Navy Department that she will spend two or three days at Callao taking coal aboard. She has been just fifteen days at sea since leaving Acapulco and her coal must be nearly exhausted. She should make the run from Callao to Aric, Oblill, where she is expected to touch, in two days, or if she keeps straight on she should arrive at her destination snd join the Baltimore and San Francisco at Iquique in three days from the time of her departure from Callao, so the longest chase on record is nearly over, and unless the Etata blunders into her while the Charleston is there it appears that the chances of her capture by that vessel are now very small.

A RECEPTION OF 'CHARGE TO HEW ORLEARS' CHIEF EXECUTIVE.

An Address by the Man Who Suppressed the Maña in New Orleans—He Compilments Bt. Louis on Her Progress.

Mayor Noonan Hakes a Characteristic Speech in Reply.

At 10 clock this afternoon Mayor Joseph A. Shakespeare of New Orleans, accompanied by the ladies and gentlemen of his party, visited the Merchants' Exchange on the invitation of President Marcus Sernicians, and the Maña prevented with the Exchange, and Mayor Noonan and was the recipient of hearty compilments on all sides for his course in the Maña prosecution, and the lynching at the Parish Frico. All preservements was described in the Maña prosecution, and the lynching at the Parish Frico. All preservements in the Maña prosecution, and the lynching at the Parish Frico. All preservements of the Exchange, and the Mayor of Statespeare was secreted to the Exchanges and Mayor Noonan Scales of the fact that he alone where the Maña prosecution, and the lynching at the Parish Frico. All preservements of the Exchange on the fact that he alone where the conversation. After spending some time in the directors' room by Fresident Bernbeiner, many gentlement of the Exchange was secreted to the Mayor Statespeare was secreted to the Exchange search of the Exchange was secreted to the Exchange search of the Exchange was secreted to the Exchange search of the Exchange search as the most owner, and the Mayor of New Orleans, and crabitled his fatternal regard by enderling his neck with the search he had a pleasant word. Judge F. S. Lanham presented him with a bottle of his wooden toothpicts, the fame of which, Mr. Shakespeare was introduced by Mayor Shakespeare was introduce are very fortunately situated. You have no debt to speak of, while we of New Orleans are paying $1,000,000 a year for obligations contracted in antebellum days. But we are paying them, because we are a debt-paying city in a debt-paying State. The Denver congress, from which I have just returned, did much to unite the States along the Mississippi from the mouth to the source of that river, and we hope that the levees can now be taken good care of. Louislana can be proud of what she has done this year, as the be taken good care of. Louisiana can be proud of what she has done this year, as the breaks have not amounted to one mile in ninety. I thank you, gentlemen, for your attention and for the hospitality with which we have been received."

we have been received."

NOONAN'S REMARKABLE ADDRESS.

President Bernheimer then introduced a man whom he said needed no introduction, for he knew all present and all knew him.

Mayor Noonan then stepped to the front, "Within the last half hour," he said, "I have done something that I never did before, and I have done most things in we life. I according to the said." most things in my life, I entered into the spirit of the grain pit. I believe it has no more bottom than the bottomless pit men-tioned in the Bible. If I win Mayor Shake-'s daughter will hear from me peare's daugnter will hear from me, if I lose she will hear nothing. Gentlemen, I have been a lawyer for twenty years, was educated in the best law school in the world, but I know that sometimes the law don't work, and Shakespeare knows it, too. I would rather see a lot of adders, a lot of Northern copperheads, the snakes I mean, walking about the alleys of St. Louis than those Dagoes with stilettoes. If they ever come to this city they will be well treated. They were awfully well treated in New Orleans. There is one commandment that is dearer than any of the ten to Americans; that is that no foreign convicts can come to this country. They never shall come here while I am Mayor of St. Louis."

come to this country. They never shall come here while I am Mayor of St. Louis."

CAPT. BEANHAM'S ADDRESS.

Capt. W. H. Beanham made a short address. He said; "The Denver Congress from which we have just returned, was a splendid collection of business men, and everything of a partisan and political character was carefully excluded. The result is that the West and East, which are united in interest, co-operated more effectually than they ever did before. One fact was most pleasing to the entire New Orleans delegation, I refer to the hearty welcome accorded Mayor Shakespeare. He was surrounded everywhere by men who sought an introduction for the purpose of congratulating him upon the manner in which he had throttled the hydra that had dared to lift its head in New Orleans. His course was universally approved, and Shakespeare the American is nearly as popular abroad as he is at home."

After the close of Capt. Beanham's remarks the party were proceeding from the platform to the floor when Mayor Noonan rushed forward, and at the top of his voice shouted: "Fellow citizens, we don't care a straw for Mayor Shakespeare; the people we are glad to see are his ladies." After this diversion the visitors were escorted to their carriages and driven to the hotel. The party leaves to night for to the hotel. The party leaves to-night for

VON MOLTKE'S LAST RUBBER.

He and His Partner Took All the Thirtee

It is interesting to note that Count von Moltke, who was always a great whist player, should have had special luck in his last rub-ber. His partner, who usually held bad cards, evening, while the Field Marshal himself was in high spirits. "Nun haben wir sie!"—"Now we have them!" he said, smilingly, as he played his last hand; and, indeed, he won the rubber by scoring what is called grandschlem—that is, he and his partner took all the thirteen tricks.

It is true that he complained a little during the course of the game, of asthmatic uneasiness; but as he was subject periodically to this complaint in later years he neither paid much attention to it himself nor were his relations influenced by any apprehension of sickness or danger. He spoke of pains in the region of the stomach, which he attributed jokingly to having taken too much cake with

THE ROMANCE OF A BEETLE.

Captured, Set Free and Rescued From th Jaws of Death. From the Detroit Free Press.
One morning while I was watering the flowers in my garden my attention was at-tracted by a moving object on a deserted wood pile site close by. I first thought it was speed and muscle on the part of the whole family Samson was saved for a career of strange adventure.

When we had him safely in our hands again we decided to give him his liberty, but not until the boys had removed the "stone boat" and tied about as much red rag to his "traces" as we thought he could comfortably carry in flight. After watching him some minutes as he soared about the sitting-room and getting our laugh out we put him to outdoors and saw no more of him until a week later, when Jupiter, our cat, proudly brought me a crow he had caught.

I choked pussy just a little to make him let go the bird, and, finding it unhurt, decided to keep it as a pet and to name it Jack. But from its beak two red rags were hanging by short strings, and on pulling them out, up came Samson from Jack's crop, who, after a bath and a few minutes in the sunshine, was as lively as ever.

You will doubtless be glad to hear that we then relieved him of all decorations, and he was restored to liberty and the peace of private life; having convinced us all of one important truth—that dazzing public honors, however well deserved, so far from affording the unmixed satisfaction and safety they seem to promise, often prove the source of discomfort and danger.

MANUFACTURING GLOBES. Description of How Geographical

The first process is to cover the model with a thick layer of pasteboard in a moist state. When it is dry a sharp knife is passed around it so as to separate the pasteboard coat into two hemispherical shells, which are then taken off the model and united at the cut edges with glue. The hollow sphere thus formed is the skeleton of the globe that is to be.

The next thing is to cover it with a coating of white enamel about one-eighth of an inch in thickness. When this is done the ball is turned into perfect roundness with a machine. The iron rod running through the center of the original model and projecting at both ends through the surface has left holes in the new globe which serve for the north and south poles, and through these a metal axis is run to represent the axis of the earth.

metal axis is run to represent the axis of the earth.

Then the surface is marked off with pencil lines into mathematical segments, corresponding precisely in shape with the sections of map that are to be pasted on, continues the Boston Transcript. These map sections are made from copper plates in just the sizes and shapes required to fit the globe they are made for, one set, of course, covering the entire surface of a sphere. They are printed, many of them like dress patterns, on sheets of the finest linen paper, and are cut out carefully with a sharp-pointed knife.

When they have been pasted on the different countries are tinted by hand with water colors. There is no special rule for this, except that contrasts are sought to help the eye. Finally the whole is overlaid with a brilliant white varnish, which is of almost metallic hardness, and it will wear indefinitely without scratching and without losing its brightness.

"The city water is better now than it has been at any time in two years," said Health sioner Ware this morning, as he held commissioner ware this morning, as he held in his hand an analysis of a sample of Chicago city water made by the well-known chemist, Prof. Long of Rush Medical College.

A sample taken from the tap at the corner of Dearborn and Lake streets, Wednesday, May 20, was analysed and showed the presence of the following foreign substances, the figures representing the number of pints per million:

"I have not made the comparison myself," said Dr. Ware, "but Prof. Long and Dr. Carey both tell me it is purer, freer from disease producing germs than it has been at any time for two years. That is, it contains a smaller proportion of ammonia and organic matters."

In addition to the above there were enlisted In addition to the above there were enlisted from the civilized Indian tribes 8,500 men, and of colored troops organized at various stations in the States in rebellion, who could not be specifically credited to different States, 88,441. The total number of colored men enlisted during the war was 186,097. In the total of men furnished by the States, as given above, those who enlisted or were drafted, and subsequently paid commutation to be freed from the necessity of service, are not included. Of these there was a total of 98,724. Further, of the men who enlisted in the regular army during the war—some 67,000—only a very small proportion are included in the above enumeration, few of them being credited to their States. And with a few exceptions no credit was given to the States for the men that they enlisted for a shorter period than ninety days. In 1863 a large number of thirty-day men were enrolled, no part of whom are included in the above enumeration. On the other hand, men who reenlisted are counted twice in this list, or even oftener. As Mr. Phisterer says: "To give the number of individual persons who served in the army during the war is not possible, nor would it be of any practical benefit."

Get in the habit of carrying a small sketch book and of picking up characteristic jot tings in the street, on the ferry, in the horse car, or in the audience at the theater. Notice how men wear their hats, at what angles they are tipped and how much of the head or face is visible below the brim. There is a good deal that is expressive and characteristic about a hat, if the artist can only catch it.

Notice how different sorts of people dispose of their hands and feet. Watch the wrinkles in a man's coat when its wearer walks, and make quick memorands of them. When he is leaning forward see where the line of the shoulder and arm will come and how much of his neck is visible above this line. Get the pose of his head when it is thrown back, when he is asleep, reading the paper or fumbling in his pocket for car fare. If his arm is forward or back, note where the wrinkles in his coat front, back or sleeve will be. Society men, inboring men, business men, and tramps will all have dimerent and characteristic attitudes, ways of disposing of their hands and feet and wearing their ciothes. The more you make careful study of these things and are able to express them, the more original an artist you will become. Make studies of the hang of a lady's drapery, the set of her bonnet or hat, the lines of her hair, the way in which she carries her muff, parcels, bag, or umbrella, how she gets on or off a car, crossing a gutter, or rings a door-

TROOPS IN THE CIVIL WAR.

Where the Northern Army Came From for the Great Fight.

No requisition for troops was made upon the Pacific States—California, Nevada and Oregon—nor upon any of the Territories, nor on any of the seceded States, except Tennessee, Arkansas and North Carolina. It may surprise some to know that from all but two of the rebel States quite a number of white men enlisted in the ranks of the Federal troops. The enumeration of colored troops is given separately. These figures are taken from Phisterer's Statistical Record, which is taken wholly from official sources and is unquestionably correct:

On the fifth day he said: "Pass the gravy." He said it in a voice as sweet as it all his life were sunshine. Six men and three women reached for it. With gravy, they never associated sentiment, but now they all took gravy with him. It was a smoking of the peace pipe, an eating of the gravy of reconciliation. "Will you take me," she asked, "to a concert this evening?" Her bang was smooth and demure. It knew it had won the day. The Popular Dance Said to Have Been Invented by an Austrian Cook.

This universally popular dance is said to cook who, finding herself dull in her kitchen, sung and danced to the now well-known measure. The cook's mistress having surprised her during the performance, she was requested to dance and sing in the presence of the composer, Joseph Neruda, who took notes of the performance.

The polka passed into Prague, then to Vienna, and was danced for the first time before a Parisian public by a Hungarian artiste at the Odeon Theater in 1840. Plenty of animated polka music was written successively by Lanner, Strauss and Francois Hunai. But the real polka mania did not break out in Paris till the year 1844, when it was danced with great success by a select few at the Salle Valentio, in the Rue Saint-Honore, the premises now occupied by the Nouveau Cirque.

Crowds used to assemble round the dancers to admire the difficulty and was not the simple, close and rushing dance at present known by that name. So popular was the polka in Paris nearly half a century ago that the dancing-masters had for clients indies and gentlemen of all classes, and even judges, lawyers and doctors did not disdain to take lessons in what was then considered one of the greatest acquirements for a baliroom dancer. prised her during the performance, she was

CHEATING AT CARDS.

A Large Proportion of Men Are Dishonest

On a very moderate estimate, out of every hundred men who play high at games of pure chance at least three cheat, and out of every ndred women at least six, says the London Truth. They do not always cheat, but every now and then when they think that no one is looking they, as the Americans say, "play with the advantages." If any one will take the trouble to count up the number of persons who live year after year above their incomes, and who play habitually at games of chance, and yet are never in debt, he will perceive that they must cheat, for at no game of pure chance can a habitual player win year after year. It is simply impossible if he does not give himself some little advantage over his opponents. The advantage, however, need not be above 2 or 3 percent for him to make a good thing out of his playing. At baccarat, for instance, a person playing £10 each coup would stake in an hour at least £300, and 2 per cent of this would insure him £6 per hour. If he plays frequently the luck of one hour would balance the lil luck of another hour, so that were he to play 200 hours in the year his annual revenue from cards would be £1,200. looking they, as the Americans say, "play

Beer From Spruce Trees.

There is another thing besides gum which is Eugland the people brew a sort of beer out of spruce tops and maple sap or water mixed with maple sugar which—well, if the reader knew one lady who makes it and were perknew one lady who makes it and were permitted to taste some of her specially cherished bottles of it he would surely say that he had never tasted the like before. This lady's recipe ran about as follows: First steep up a pretty strong essence out of the tops of young spruce trees; then put your essence into water in which maple sugar had been dissolved, about 4 ounces of essence to 10 pounds of sugar and 10 or 11 gallons of water with about half a pint of yeast. When this has "worked" sufficiently and been bottled about long enough it is a highly palatable, and if the full truth be told, a tolerably exhilerating liquid. It has an explosive energy beyond any champagne that ever was opened. On one of his vacation trips the writer was asked by a circle of country people to uncork a bottle of this spruce beer out on the grass under the door yard maples. He innocently did as he was asked and the force of the explosion threw every drop of the beer out of the bottle. After the applause had subsided and the beer had been wiped off the experimenter's clothes and out of his eyes a young farmer opened some bottles under a tin pall and the brew was tested and approved.

A grand race course inclosed with glass where races will be run every day in the year on the plan of the Guttenburg horse rages is a project just now engaging the attention of several large property owners and devotees of the turf who are growing very enthusiastic over the bright prospects for carrying the enterprise into practical operation. It is a well-known fact that the Guttenburg races pay immense dividends upon the capital stock of that corporation, and it is the prospect of gain which has already stimulated a great deal of interest.

Frost, George Heischberger and John Donovan, the turfman, have been prominently men-tioned.

Gen. Frost becomes interested in the de-sign of his associates mainly for the reason that a site for the race course has been selected at the crossing of the Wabash and the St. Louis & Suburban, form-Wabash and the St. Louis & Suburban, formerly Narrow Gauge railroad, at Graham Station in the Florissant Valley where the General owns and formerly made his home on a body of 800 acres of land, all of it level nearly as a ball-room floor.

Frost is said to have been in some doubt whether the race course would be of any benefit to such portion of his land as was not needed for the race course. He has been in consultation with friends about the matter, and after having talked the whole thing over, it has been concluded that the location of such a racing concluded that the location of such a racing headquarters as the one indicated in that section of St. Louis County would be a great benefit to surrounding property, as it would be the means of attracting immense numbers of people to the place, and the increased patronage to Graham Station would be the means of inducing the railroad companies to provide better means of transit than is now afforded and many more trains. This of itself would be an immense factor in populating that quarter of the beautiful Florissant Valley, than which there is no prettier place in the county for suburban homes.

with the American way of doing things includes church affairs as well as secular government. But it is not likely to revolutionize anything in this country.

American Catholics are not prepared to admit that the administration of their church affairs by their own archbishops and bishops has been wanting in zeal and efficiency, or so faulty, unwise and unsuccessful that its reformation can only be effected by a movement of foreign Catholic societies, backed by the influence of foreign governments, and appealing to the Pope to impose on the church here a policy more in cordance with the ideas of Prussian, Italian or other foreign Catholics who have never visited this country and never expect to live here.

Such seems to be the scope and drift of the memorial of the European Catholic Emigration Societies presented to the Pope by Herr CAHENSLY with the approval of everal European Governments. If they are dissatisfied with the wonderful progress of the church in the United States, the Pope is certainly aware of the fact that t has made no such progress in any European country, and it is not probable that he will take counsel from them rather than from those whose counsels have produced such grand results.

His Holiness will be slow to believe that the church authorities in this country have overlooked the importance of providing immigrants with priests of their own race and language as far as possible; that is to say, with the pastors best qualifled to teach them and keep them in the fold. On the question of carrying this obvious policy to the extent of making the church's work a means of maintaining and perpetuating divisions in church and State founded on differences of race and language, he will probably conclude that the policy which has hitherto yielded re-Sr. Louis is the lagest wool market in sults so satisfactory to American Catholics and to the head of the church, ought to be equally satisfactory to good Catholics everywhere.

Church in this city has been the cause of bringing up a subject for legislation at the convention never before discussed in the meetings of the diocesan delegates.

The matter is referred to as Canon 10, relating to the power of the bishop of the diocesa and standing committee with regard to the removal of churches and holding of church property. The cannon sets forth that no church shall be built within 500 yards of another church. The custom in the Episcopal Church has heretofore been that a church proposing to remove and purchasing a lot, but not being able to build immediately, is allowed certain time in which to build. Within that time no other church can build within the prescribed day afternoon, and caused considerable de-bate. The most important feature of this report was that in relation to excess bag gage, F. P. Waldo of Detroit, Mich., main-taining that the express companies were shipping trunks cheaper and calling for and delivering them at both ends of the trip, than the company would handle the same from depot to depot. There was no one on the floor who would deny that the express companies were setting the other church can build within the prescribe 500 yards of the lot purchased. For instance, St. Peter's on Grand avenue near Olive owns a lot at Westminster place and Sarah street, and has two years in which to build.

and Chestnut streets, which was burned down, has purchased a lot in the West End. A portion of the congregation does not wish to have the church removed but wishes to have the old church repaired. Much bitter feeling has been engendered between the pastor, Dr. Holland, and the dissenting fac tion of the congregation. The presensituation is that the parish holds two lots and the prospects of building on either course to legal advise, and the matter may be the subject of lengthy litigation.

Now the question has been brought up—just by whom it does not appear, though it is believed by the friends of Dr. Holland—should lieved by the friends of Dr. Holland—should not a specified time be designated in which the site of a church removing should be sold, after it had purchased another lot. Bishop Tuttle holds that the authority vested in himself, and the Handing Committee, which constitutes the executive head, does not allow them to pass upon this matter, and he therefore threw the matter before the convention to be legislated upon.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 28 .- The V partment is now giving its attention to the conduct of Capt. A. C. Markley, Company I, Twenty-fourth Infantry, now at San Carlos, Ariz. From time to time reports have been coming in to the effect that this officer was having trouble with his command, and court martial after court-martial has been ordered upon his instance to try enlisted men. Finally, it was openly charged by the men that their officer was persecuting them, and in proof of this it was shown that be had caused half of his company to be placed under arrest at one time. It was suspected that the Captain might have an unreasonable and unmilitary prejudice against colored troops, and finally assistant Adjt.-Gen. McArthur was sent from Washington to San Carlos to investigate the matter. He fell ill with the grip en route and meanwhile news came that the Captain had thirty of his men under arrrest. Secretary Proctor himself took cognizance of this extraordinary state of affairs and ordered the release of the soidlers without court martial. Now it is probable that a court of inquiry will be ordered, and if they so recommend a court martial will follow.

Grosvenor, Chairman of the Commission recently appointed by Secretary Foster to investigate and report upon European emigration to the United States.

"Just what is specifically expected of the commission, "continued the General, "I don't know, for we have not yet received our instructions, but I do know that there is pressing necessity for action on the part of the authorities. Sever was any country the receptacle for such a stream of immigration as is pouring in on us now; all our previous records as a receptacle are being sclipsed. The increase, which has become so apparent of late, has its origin principally in Southern Italy, and as most of the material now arriving is non-assimilative something must be done to decrease the volume. The labor organizations complain that sufficient employment cannot be secared for the people already here, and there is a very general demand for more rigid immigration haws. The country is rapidly becoming too strongly tainted with foreign odors. Take Wisconsin as an instance, a State that is almost a European province. The people there demand the conduct of the schools in a foreign tongue and give other marked evidences of their alienism. In a little while they will insist on having the records of their Legislature kept in their non-American language, and on top of this will come an endeavor to have the courts operate in the language or languages native to other lands than ours. This is all wrong. We cannot afford to welcome those who will not be of us."

COFFETVILLE DYNAMITE EXPLOSION. TOPEKA, Kan., May 28 .- The reports of the three wings of the legislative committee appointed at the last session to investigate the Coffeyville dynamite explosion have been made to the Governor. There is a Republican report, a Peopie's party report and a Demoratic report. Then there is a general transfer of the property and the members of the committee Demoratic report. Then there is a general statement signed by all the members of the committee. The explosion occurred during the campaign of 1898 and resulted in serious injuries to the wife and daughter of the Republican party by members of the Union Labor party and by the Republican party it was charged on the Union Labor party and the National Order of Vidette, a secret political organization which then existed mostly within the Union Labor party. isted mostly within the Union Labor party. The report of the People's party members finds that members of the Republican state Central Committee had guilty knowledge, if not more, of the dynamite plot, and point to C. A. Henrie, who was appointed assistant Labor Commissioner, who was there in the employ of the committee, as the party who worked it up. The other reports do not sustain this one. Senator Carroll, the Democratic member, says no one has been proven guilty and no good has been done. A large amount of money has been expended.

PETROLEUM AND DRUNKENNESS.

All Its Bad Effects. From the Lancet. The number of remedies trums—which have from time to time been vaunted as specifics for alcoholism is legion, some of the latest being red cinis legion, some of the latest being red cinchona, strychnine, ichthyol, phosporus, hydrobromate of hyoscine, and hydrastis. The most recently suggested remedy is petroleum, or parafine oil, to which the attention of the St. Fetersbug medical authorities was called by an accident. It appears that a laboring man, who had been drinking heavily for four days and nights, entered in a complete state of intoxication in a grocer's shop, without being conscious of where he was or what he was doing.

Unnoticed by the shopkeeper, he staggered up to an open cask of petroleum and began drinking from it. With difficulty he was dragged away from the cask, and, seeing the large quantity of petroleum he had imbloed, it was expected he would fall down senseless and be seriously ill. Instead of this, however, it is related that the petroleum had cured him of all the fill effects of overdrinking, the nausea, unsteadiness of gait, and headache disappearing as if by fagic. In fact, it is stated he left he shop sober and quite another man as compared with what he was before he took the draught of petroleum

WHIST PLAYING ON TRAINS.

Commuters Who "Kill" Time on Their Daily Rides With Cards.

From the New York Tribune.

Regular travelers to and from their homes in the suburban towns, and some of them far beyond the actual boundaries of the suburbs of New York City, must observe the rush and push of the commuters who get on the railroad trains at the various stations, each with a set purpose of passing the interval of time in what he considers the most profitable way. Some will make a rush for a full seat in the regular coaches, and if another person, especially an Italian woman with a babe and three or four bundles in her lap, drops in the seat beside him, his brow will roil itself into there. On either side, as the rainfall increases or diminishes, the population diminishes rapidly. The arid region of the West, where the rainfall is less than 20 inches—a region which comprises two-fifths of the entire area of the country—contains at present less than 3 per cent of the population.

The greatest density of population is in the area enjoying from forty to fifty inches of annual rainfall, the average of this region being fifty-nine inhabitants to the square mile.

being fifty-nine inhabitants to the square mile.

The most favorable conditions of human life would seem to exist where it is neither too wet nor too dry; and we have had an illustration of this lately in the large increase of the death rate from diseases induced or fostered by excessively wet weather.

The Census Bureau also investigated the distribution of population with reference to the mean annual temperature.

Elaborate tables are given which show that in 1870, 1880 and 1890 more than half the population was living under a temperature between 48 and 65 degs., and that between 48 and 66 degs. were found from 70 to 75 per cent of the inhabitants. Only a trifle over 1 per cent were living where the temperature was greater than 70 degs., while in the region whose mean annual temperature was above 76 degs. the number of inhabitants to the square mile not only expresses the density of population, but also gives a comparative measure of the absolute number.

The greatest density is and has been, since 1870, where the temperature ranges from 1870, if the first the degrees. From this as a maximum it diminishes rapidly both with an

Some will make a rush for a fall seat in the regular coaches, and if another person, especially an Italian woman with a babe and three or four bundles in her lap, drops in the seat beside him, his brow will roil itself into deep corrugations. These men will employ themselves reading the morning newspaper, and perhaps a few will sit and simply look vacant or drop off into a nap. Others will make a dive for the smoking-car or the baggage-car, and if may be atonec concluded that they have no intention of reading or conversing with their neighbors, but are bent on whist-playing, a custom that has become general and is likely to become universal.

The great corporations who provide transportation for the commuters to and from their various employments in the metropolis have come to understand that it is demanded of them that they furnish facilities for recreation during the fifteen, twenty or fifty miles of travel each day, and this recreation is card-playing. But it is rare, indeed, that a game is played for a stake, great or result, and should this be done openly so as to come to the officers. Hence, card-playing on the railroad trains is, as a rule, annimocent pastime. The commuter who indulges in a game of cards each morning and each afternoon has no desire to question the pre-eminence of wickedness of any of his fellow-travelers is so innocent that the practice of card-playing on the railroad trains is, as a rule, annimocent pastime. It appears that a somewhat morbid custom exists among the Viennese of having the dead bodies of children and other persons dear to them photographed, and for this purpose the corpse used to be taken to the photographer's studio. The aftention of the sanitary authorities having been drawn to the danger of the dissemination of infectious disease by this practice, a decree has been issued by the Austrian Minister of the Interior absolutely forbidding the photographing of corpses in studios open to the public, and the photographing of bodies of persons who have died of any infectious disease by professional photographers even in private houses. Exception is made of cases in which such photographs may be required for police or medico-legal purposes. In the case of persons who have died of non-infectious disease the corpses may be photographed at the private residence of the deceased, subject to the approval and on the responsibility of the medical official whose duty it is to verify deaths. This ordinance came into force on April 1. lead bodies of children and other persons

A celebrated African traveler mention that in crossing one of the many sandy des that in crossing one of the many sandy deserts in that country he came across the only known living, species of aqua bulbo, the "water-cask" plant. The region it inhabits is far from any stream of water, where, as far as the eye can reach, nothing can be seen but heaps of sand. "The sight of this little green creeper, which resembles the common ground ity in some respects," he says, "falled me with an intense longing to once more see the green meadows and cool, shady forests which we had now left at least 300 miles behind. For four days we had not seen even so much as a spear of grass or dried-up cactus, the latter having been quite plentiful the week before.

"The botanist of the company, in examining one of the plants, found thus unexpectedly growing in the center of a sandy African desert, noticed what he supposed was a green, bulbous fruit growing under the thick leaves of the creeper, almost resting on the

What Men Like Women.

They like the doing of little things that are pleasant to them.

They like the courtesy of the fireside.

They like women whose lives and faces are always full of the sunshine of a contented mind and cheerful disposition.

They like the ability to talk well and a knowledge of the virtue of silence.

They like a motherliness big enough to understand the wants of the older, as well as the younger boys.

They like a disposition to speak good, rather than evil, of every human being.

They like sympathy—which means a willing ear for the tale of sorrow or gladness.

she is engaged to be married. Five years ago William H. Layton came to live at No. 205 Lake street, a few doors from where Mr. Zelhoffer lives with his family. With Layton was a white woman, who passed as his wife, and two children. They became acquainted with the Zelhoffer family. Seven months ago Layton separated from the woman he was living with. He had been married to her, he said, but he discovered that she had another husband living. He took the three children to his mother's house. The woman whom Layton discarded said that he left her because he wanted to marry Emma Zelhoffer. This statement was confirmed to some extent when neighbors saw the couple out walking. Emma's parents knew nothing of that until last Friday. They questioned her, and she last Friday. They questioned her, and she frankly told them that she liked Layton and that it was nobody's business but her own. Her father ordered her to give him up or

WHICH SHOCKED ELLENDALE.

The Efforts of the Citizens of That Suburt to See a Black Villain Punished Meet With Success-Other Pleas Entered-Mary Millwrights' Case Dismissed

Henry Murphy, a brutal looking black man, pleaded guilty to the charge of attempted criminal assault when arraigned in the Crimnal Court this morning, and was sentend to serve a term of eight years in the penitentiary. The citizens of Gratiot Station and Ellendale can thus congratulate themselves on the successful issue of the prosecution which they so ardently pushed.

which they so ardently pushed.

The case is one of the most sensational in the history of St. Louis suburbs. Miss Lillie Bailey was the daughter of a highly respected mechanic living at Ellendale, and was employed as a domestic in the family of Anton Nagel at Gratiot Station. On the evening of Jan. 25, between the hours of 5 and 6 o'clock, the young lady was on her way from Gratiot Station to visit her parents and had started to walk down the road to the tracks. When on an unfrequented stretch of unimproved ground she heard footsteps approaching from behind and quickened her pace. Her pursuer was going at a rapid gait and soon passed her. In the gray light of the evening she was enabled to see that it was a negro. At that moment the miscreant drew from under his coat a short, stout club and struck her a fearful blow on the head, felling her to the ground. her to the ground.

Divining the brute's intentions Miss Bailey quickly regained her feet and dashed up the road with the negro in hot pursuit. Her screams attracted the attention of two men who were in a field some distance away, and on their approach the negro took to the timber. Miss Bailey was bleeding from the wound on her head and almost frantic with fear but managed to was bleeding from the wound on her head and almost frantic with fear but managed to give a description of her assailant and then fainted dead away. She was carried into a neighboring residence while the alarm was sounded and the citizens summoned. A mob of forty or fifty determined men was soon formed and the search commenced. The fleeing negro was located in a neighboring patch of timber and chased for almost two miles through the woods. He finally succeeded in throwing his pursuers off his trail and disappeared. Had the man been caught at the time, his life would certainly have paid the penalty of his infamous crime. It was almost two hours before the negro was located. He was found in his room at the residence of George Vail, brother of Chas. F. Vail, at whose place near Gratiot Station he was employed. He gave his name as Henry Murphy, and when taken into the presence of his victim was identified on the instant. Sergt. Keeble and officers Kennedy and Walsh of the Fifth District took the prisoner in charge. Murphy's only defense was that he was intoxicated at the time and knew nothing of what had occurred, but his statements were not borne out by his condition when ing of what had occurred, but his statements were not borne out by his condition when running for his life. The citizens of Gratiot, highly incensed that such an outrage should have been perpetrated almost in their very midst, held an indignation meeting a few evenings after the occurrence and raised a fund with which Gov. Chas. P. Johnson was retained to prosecute the action. Murphy was duly indicted on the charge of attempted criminal assault. During his confinement in jail he was seen by Attorney Jos. Furling, who induced him to accept a term of eight years. The extreme penalty of the law governing the offense charged be ing but ten years, both Gov. Johnson and Circuit Attorney Clover were agreeable to the acceptance of the niea and prescribed the acceptance of the plea and prescribed conditions, and action was taken as indicated to-day.

OTHER PLEAS.

Charles Thomas pleaded guilty to the charge of burglary in the second degree and larceny and was given a term of four years in each action, making a sentence of eight years in the penitentiary. The offense was plundering the residence of Aaron Haas, 3/26 Laclede avenue, on the night of April 4, and the stealing of clothing and silver ware of the value of $60. Four other actions for grand larceny every description, and a full line of Seal, Alligator and Grain Leather bags and satchels, can be had at prices to suit the times, from the old reliable house of P. C. Murphy, Third and St. Charles streets.

Net of the ractions for grand larceny against the man were continued generally. These charged him with the theft of a lady's gold watch and chain, a gold locket and a pair of ear-rings from Misses Nettle Gerling and Christina Schindle, 8216 Pine street; clothing of the value of $100 and $12.50 in cash from Miss Sophia Berlinger, 2915 Chestnut street; a gold watch and chain, out five hours the jury came in with a verdict of not guilty. The big crowd in the court-room cheered lustily at the announcement of the verdict, and everyone wanted to shake hands with Pasqualina Robetiello. The crime for which the fair defendant has been on trial for six days was the killing of her lover and betrayer on March 2 last. Nicolo Pierro, young, stalwart and good looking, stood on the steps of No. 156 Mott street nearly a year ago, breathing vows of deathless affection in the little ear of rosy-cheeked Pasqualina Robertiello. On the horny palm of his right hand a five-chambered 38-caliber revolver lay glittering in the loaded. If ever I prove false to you, shoot me like a dog. I shall deserve it."

like a dog. I shall deserve it."

Nicolo's devotion cooled. Pasqualina's parents grew indignant. The girl was in a delicate condition. On Saturday they drove her from their doors. The five-chambered revolver went with their daughter.

When Nicolo Pierro came home from his work Saturday night, Feb. 28 last, Pasqualina met him at the door of his boarding-house, No. 145 Sullivan street. On her knees she begged him to fulfil his promise and make her his wife. He threw the kneeling girl aside and went into the house, after adding harsh words to her cup of bitterness.

All night, all day Sunday and all through Sunday night the hungry homeless girl haunted Sullivan street, walking up and down in front of No. 145. Her former lover came out and returned again. She did not molest him.

By the next day, Monday, March 2, suffering and exposure had made her desperate. Her eager, dark eyes had a wild glare about them, and her hand clutched the revolver hidden in the bosom of her dress, as she glanced furtively at the workmen who were starting out earliest for a week of labor.

To-morrow morning, fifteen members of the

To-morrow morning, fifteen members of the City Council of Boston, Mass., will arrive in the city and proceed to the Southern Hotel, where quarters have been secured for them. The object of the visit of this delegation is to examine the system of public improvements of this city, especially in regard to street paving, sewerage and water supply, with the object of ascertaining how far the system in vogue in Boston can be improved by the adoption of some of the plans followed in St. Louis. S. B. Allington of Boston, formerly connected with the Street Department, who is stopping at the Lindell, said: "The trip is not a mere junketing excursion, as such trips are too likely to be, but is undertaken for the purpose of carefully studying some of the municipal improvements of this city with a view to their adoption in Boston. That city's growth has been very marked, at least from a New England standpoint, during the last few years, and in several respects we have outgrown our facilities. Our water supply is excellent, but the means of handling it are less than are required for so large a city and it will soon be necessary to make extensive additions. It is, of course, highly desirable that no mistake be made, and in order to avoid one the members of the Council wish to inspect the water-works now in process of construction here.

St. LOUIS STREET PAVING.

Another matter which will be carefully investigated is that of street paving. I know something about this myself, and am aware that no city in the country has so successfully solved the problem, at least none in which there is a heavy traffic. Particular attention will be paid to the wood block pavements which have stood wear and tear here better than anywhere else. Of course comparisons with cities such as Washington, where there is little or no heavy traffic, give no data of value to manufacturing centers, and St. Louis is the only place of the latter character where either the asphalt or wood pavements have really proved satisfactory. Your granite paver and also is

Bensiek and "Bismarck."

Councilman John C. Bensiek has succeeded within the past few days in acquiring for himself an unenviable reputation as a legis-lator, and from the expressions he has given on certain questions, it is to be judged that his ideas of why he is a Councilman are, to say the least, very peculiar.

There are several stories being told about what Mr. Bensiek has said and done, but one in particular has been substantiated by a dozen reliable authorities, among them being the Chief of Police, Secretary Paschall of the Police Board, the Secretaries of the Council, Some days ago a bill was introduced in the

Some days ago a bill was introduced in the Council providing for 100 additional patrolmen and six additional sergeants on the police force. In due time the bill was sent to the Committee on Police, which consists of John C. Benslek, Andrew Hoolan and Charles Wehner. Several persons connected with the Police Department who were anxious to have the bill passed, went to the committee to urge them to report the bill ne soon as possible. Mr. Benslek then made the statement that unless his man, Henry Kicker, was appointed to the force, the bill would not be reported. This demand was met by a very plain and flat refusal from the Police Department, where Kicker's record was on file. He had been dismissed from the force and the board and Maj. Har-

Commissioner Holman was seen and said that Norton had always done good work and was considered a very square man and that the probable cause was that he had not been made his first payment on the work.

TROUBLE AHEAD.

Justice Delayed in the New Orleans Jury Bribery Cases.

MUTTERINGS OF DISCONTENT AT THE RECENT DEVELOPMENTS.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 28,—The situation as regards the jury bribery cases in connection with the Hennessy assassination case creates much public comment and no little excitement here. Tuesday it was discovered that a State witness in two of the cases had disappeared and yesterday the cases in question were continued until the witnesses could be brought back to this city. The testimony required is that of a young man named Leonice Burthe, a member of a well-known family. Burthe has been located in St. Louis, where he has relatives. St. Louis, where he has relatives. He was a tales juror in the Hennessy case, and it was on his testimony before the Grand-jury, to the effect that he had been corruptly approached by Alfred Armant, a prominent lawyer, that the latter was indicted for attempting to bribe a juror. A few days ago Edward White, one of the keepers in the Parish Prison, was indicted for approaching with corrupt intent one of the witnesses in the jury bribery cases, and it soon became known that the indictment was on the complaint of Burthe, who testified that White had attempted to get him not to give evidence against Armant. When their case was continued yesterday White and Armant both protested vigorously, claiming their right to a speedy trial. White further stated that Burthe was aware of the fact that he (White) was going to testify to Burthe's bad character, and that Burthe had therefore gone before the Grand-jury and made bad character, and that Burthe had therefore gone before the Grand-jury and made an utterly unfounded accusation against him, and that Burthe, knowing his character would be exposed, had left the State to prevent such exposure. The general opinion is that Burthe was spirited away in the interest of the defense, and this belief has generally aroused public sentiment. If Burthe does not return voluntarily, it is probable that he will be indicted and a requisition sent for him.

The indictments against James Cooney for The indictments against James Cooney for bribery were called up and nolle prosequies entered, the District Attorney stating that in one of the cases the wrong man had been indicted, and in the other the State witness, Goodwin, a tales juror, who, it is alleged, had been approached by Cooney, had suddenly become possessed of a defective memory, and was unable to identify the prisoner as the man who had attempted to corrupt him. Cooney is held under another indictment for attempting to bribe Gormsley, another tales juror. In two other of the bribery cases, one against Emil gBagnetto, an cases, one against Emil (Bagnetto, an uncle of one of the Italians lynched in the parish prison, and a man named Glondi, the defense claims no crime has been committed, it not being unlawful in Louislana to corit not being unlawful in Louislana to corruptly approach a tales juror. This technical point Judge Marr now has under advisement. O'Malley's application for a change of venue is still pending. There are many mutterings of discontent at the developments in the bribery cases yesterday. The apparent spiriting away of one of the principal witnesses and the assertion that the law cannot punish bribers of tales jurors have made a bad impression on the public mind and may lead to a serious trouble. The newspapers are loud in their warnings that the temper of the people will no longer permit the delay in the purification of the fountains of justice.

Internal Revenue Collector Wenneker proposes to make matters interesting for the church festivals, picnic and steamboat excursions, unless their managers are more

But the waist line must be slender and the flowers are stened to look careless or the effect is not good. Some persons have no tact or taste in handling flowers. The natural lover of the bright and beautiful children of nature are nearly always among them. There is all the difference in the way people handle flowers. Those who love them touch them defity, lightly, lovingly, as if they had life.

The Napoleonic violet was most popular for spring wear and a small unobtrusive mass of them will fill the atmosphere surrounding it the wearer with their dainty and delicate perfume. Some young laides wear them hidden in their laces.

Other Sporting News.

An Australian writer speaking of the champion feather-weight of the world says: "All sorts of rumors are afloat regarding Griffo and his intentions. Some folks allege that Griffo is going to Broken Hill to accept Mr. O'Brien's generous and sportsman-like offer; others assert that the champion feather is to fight Mr. Murphy at Coogee under Mr. Larmour's management. Yet again another section declares that the 'Rocks' here is going to tour America and England under the wing of a weil-known actor-vocalist.

"Billy Murphy heard of the latter rumor, and was preparing to leave on the Alameda, determined, so he says, to make Griffo fight him on the American side. Griffo, however, took up a stand which he is perfectly justified in taking. He said that as champion of the world he would not go to America or England, nor, for that matter, out of his native city of Sydney. He said Sydney was good enough for him, and if any man wished to wrest the title from him let him come to Sydney and try. This was his final decision. He would not negotiate with any one outside this city but he would fight Billy

THE TURF. New York, May 28.—Old Mortimer is dead. He was led out like a soldier and shot. For over a year he had been an invelid, and it was to put an end to his misery that Mr. wrest the title from him let him come to Sydney and try. This was his final decision. He would not negotiate with any one outside this city but he would fight Billy Murphy in any decent place here for the best terms available. Those who find fault with this notion of Griffo's must remember that the lad fought his way step by step, meeting all comers like a man, and whipping them, and it is hard lines if after a hundred fights and not a single defeat he cannot, now that he is champlon of the world, decide where he will meet his foeman. Personally, I think Griffo could make a lot of money by touring the colonies and then going to America and England, but that is his business, and if he prefers to stay here he has a perfect right to do so. I went to see Murphy and him meet, to put a stop to the deluge of talk, and no man would like to see Griffo win more heartily than I. I think all the sports in Sydney, while they will give Murphy fair play, would like to see him downed on a fair field on account of the letter he is alleged to have written to the American press, calling us, in effect, a set of convicts.

"The would not negotiate with any one outside this final decided to fight it was to put an end to his misery that Mr. Withers permitted him to be destroyed. Mortimer was 26 years old and died full of honors. On the race course and in the stud he was one of the great horses of this century. Plerre Lorllard imported him about twelve years ago, buying him of Count Lagrange for $25,000. He ran forty-eight races in his career on the French, German and English turf, winning twenty-six of them.

He would win at six furlongs to-day and at two and one-half miles to-morrow and was up to any weight, 140 pounds being one. It came near being the cause of an international dispute. At the breaking up of the Rancocas stud Mortimer became the property of Mr. Withers at Brookdale. PINCHED FACE, BLUE LIPS. Why a Lady Was So Unattractive.

"I saw a lady with pinched features, blue lips, and a ruddy nose, as I came down in the cars this morning," said one of the leading doctors of America recently, "She was unhappy, and really did not know the cause. But I, as a physician, though never having seen her before, knew exactly the source of her trouble. What was it? She was suffering from malaria. This, you know, is now the great disease, and it seems to be on the increase."
"Is malaria dangerous, doctor?"

to be on the increase."

"Is malaria dangerous, doctor?"

"Yes, and no. It is the indirect cause of many, perhaps most diseases, and it always puts a person in a condition to invite disease, although it is bad enough of itself."

"And what do you do for it?"

"Ah! There is the hardest part of the subject. The principal remedy has been quinine, but it is not always advisable. One thing, however, is almost a necessity in any case of malaria, and that is a pure stimulant, preferably whiskey. Where it is the right kind, it seems to kill all the germs of malaria quicker than any other known thing."

it is the right kind, it seems to kill all the germs of malaria quicker than any other known thing." The remarks of the doctor are most valuable, but he did not go on to state what is known to the writer—that both himself and most prominent physicians prescribe Dufry's Pure Malte Whiskey. Their reasons for this are many, the principal ones being that it is the only medicinal whiskey in the market and the only one which for years has stood the most scrutinizing chemical tests. Of course, cheaper and impure whiskeys have been advocated and certain unscrupulous dealers try to sell them because they can upon a pure and expensive whiskey like Dufry's Malt, but any one who desires health and to keep off malaria, should insist upon having Dufry's and take no other.
